To whom it may concern:

Pavel Vecherin had worked with us at Freedman HealthCare LLC as a freelance remote web developer from June 19, 2019 to April 30, 2022.

Pavel was responsible for developing and maintaining our proprietary application for automated web data collection and analysis. Pavel's responsibilities included:

- creation of Python and Selenium WebDriver scripts
- testing and deployment of code in the AWS server production environment
- GUI updates in PHP and JavaScript
- integration with SendGrid
- design and implementation of updates to the MySQL project database
- crawler scripts maintenance and updates
- collaboration with other developers
- planning and reporting the completed work milestones and time expenditures

We at FreedmanHealthCare and I personally have found Pavel to be a responsible, intelligent, organized, highly skilled engineer who clearly communicates throughout the project and makes sure the desired results are achieved. On multiple occasions, Pavel had researched various bugs and feature requests and was able to offer excellent, creative solutions. Pavel's time management is superb. We found Pavel to be an independent self-starter who was able to deliver completed work with minimal supervision.

We are grateful to have worked with Pavel and would not hesitate to hire him in the future.

I recommend Pavel without reservation for any web development project.

Sincerely,

Sofya Reznik
